

How To $ave Money on Gifts Without Leaving Your Home!

Copyright 2010 - Leo J Quinn Jr - www.LeoQuinn.com

www.LeoQuinn.com

Yeah yeah yeah...that's a pretty boring title. If you have a better idea, please let me know!

It really is possible to save a lot of money with your computer these days. The nice thing is, it's really fast too.

I admire those folks who can walk into a grocery store and walk out with $300 in groceries for $2.12 because they are experts at using coupons. Most people, I think, don't have the time, energy or expertise to do that.

The computer makes saving money quick and easy. You probably won't save 99+% like the example above but the savings can be substantial.

This report will show you many ways to save that money. You have probably heard of some of these sites but be sure to read about each one because I have some unique ways to use them.

Let's start out with the biggest of dogs...

We all know that Amazon offers discounted prices on just about everything.

The savings is always front and center!

List Price: ~~$13.95~~

Price: $7.67 & eligible for FREE Super Saver Shipping on orders over $25. Details

You Save: $6.28 (45%)

Pre-order Price Guarantee. Learn more.

You're probably not aware that Amazon calls their categories, "NODES"

To find out NODE #'s go to Amazon and click on the SHOP ALL DEPARTMENTS Orange Button.

Look at the URL line and you'll notice "node=" and then a 6 digit number. (it's not always 6)

Take that NODE # and put it into this URL...

<http://www.amazon.com/s?node=NODE#HERE&pct-off=70-99>

So the end product will look like...

<http://www.amazon.com/s?node=284507&pct-off=70-99>

You'll notice that part at the end... "&pct-off=70-99"

That means the products you get back will be offered on Amazon at discounts of 70-99% off suggested retail price.

You can change the 70 or 99 to any number you want.

So if you know someone who likes kitchen stuff and you want to get them a gift but your budget is limited use this tactic to get a nice gift at the best price.

<http://www.amazon.com/s?node=284507&pct-off=70-99>

You could turn it into a moneymaker if you find something selling at or near retail on ebay which you can buy at a discount using this tactic on Amazon.

Keep in mind the eBay fees and shipping costs when selecting products.

Another way you can save money on Amazon is by buying used products. Notice in the next picture that you could save around $20 on the Flip Mino by buying used.

"It fell off the back of a truck in front of my house! It's the thought that counts, right?"

Amazon has warehouse deals in just about every category so start any shopping there.

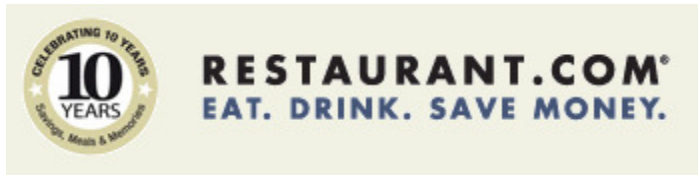

www.WarehouseDeals.com

The screenshot shows the Amazon Warehouse Deals website. At the top, the Amazon logo is next to 'warehousedeals'. Below it, a search bar is present with a dropdown menu set to 'Warehouse Deals' and a 'GO' button. To the right of the search bar are links for 'Cart' and 'Your Account'. A banner below the search bar reads 'Deep discounts on open-box and like-new products from Amazon.com'. Below this banner, there are several category tabs: 'Just Arrived', 'Deep Discounts', 'Last-Chance Deals', and 'FREE SHIPPING on most orders over $25 (Learn More)'. On the right side of the banner, it says 'Amazon Prime™ FREE 2-Day Shipping'. On the left side of the page, there is a vertical list of product categories: Electronics & Computers, Jackpot, Televisions, Blu-ray & DVD, Video Games, Kindle, Books, Music, Kitchen, Sports, Health & Personal Care, Home Improvement, Just Arrived, Deep Discounts, Last Chance Deals, and Grocery & Personal Care. The main content area is titled 'How warehousedeals works' and features a four-step process: 1. A product is returned to Amazon (represented by a box icon), 2. Product verified to be in working order (represented by a green checkmark icon), 3. Condition of the product is determined (represented by a magnifying glass icon), and 4. Product is offered at deep discount (represented by a 'SALE' tag icon). Below this process, there are three columns of product categories: 'TVs & HDTVs' with a flat-panel LCD, 'Electronics' with a Canon camera, and 'Grocery' with various snack and cookie products. On the right side of the page, there is a section titled 'Last-Chance Deals' featuring three products: 'Medieval Games', 'New York Times Crosswords', and 'Madden NFL 08' priced at $4.99.

If you get a warehouse deal with the intent of giving it as a gift and its condition is not up to your standards you can send it back and get your money back.

You'd take your chances buying from an individual.

Reader Tina reports...

Often, though, they run additional sales- 60, 70, 80, and just recently, a 90% off sale. This is off their ALREADY discounted price! So that $25 GC that is regularly 12.50 is now $3.75 when the 70% off sale is running. With the 90% deal that they just ran, I racked up a LOT of holiday shopping: $285 in GCs for pocket change: $15.60. The only 'catch' (which really isn't a catch) is that there are often minimum purchases, or certain times when you can use them. ie: You can use your $25 GC on a minimum purchase of $35 (typically). There's some fine print, but if you're willing to meet the terms, it's a great deal. The economy is bad; they've been running the 70, and 80% sales often!

www.LeoQuinn.com

A friend last night told me she'd recently bought two $25 gift certificates for $1 each.

Those pesky "restrictions" aren't so bad.

Typically, the discount applies only to FOOD not drinks. You have to buy a minimum. You'd have to buy $35 worth of food with the $25 gift certificate for example.

They add a gratuity, usually 18% before the discount, you have to use it in the dining room and only one certificate per party.

Not too bad.

The certificates are delivered in one of two ways. You can be sent a GIFT CARD which you can present to the recipient (or keep yourself).

Or you can send it as an email to the recipient. If you do that, what they get in their email box looks like this...

There are many more merchants available but at this time PJ doesn't have any gift cards available for them. Once you sign up at the site (it's free) you can set up alerts for when they get a card from your favorite merchant.

The numbers after the company names above indicate the number of gift cards available.

I've checked with my attorney and he assures me that you do NOT have to give the gift card as a gift. You can buy the gift card and use it at the merchant to save money on any purchase.

If you're going to be shopping at one of these places anyway, you might as well save some money at PlasticJungle.com

There is no charge for postage to send you a card.

At this site you can also sell your unwanted (or partially used) gift cards or exchange them for a gift certificate to Amazon.com and other stores. You can also donate them to benefit your favorite charity.

Frankly, I'm not sure how this place makes money but it seems to work.

Now there is no reason to let a gift card expire.

When you get one, use it quickly or sell it here. Companies go out of business unexpectedly all the time and you don't want to get stuck.

When you receive a gift card that you intend to use, make a note on your calendar 90 days into the future to remind you that you have it.

Facebook ain't just for dog pictures anymore. Now most companies have fan pages. Every visit to a local shop or an internet shop should be preceded by a search for a fan page. Many use those fan pages to announce special deals.

To make sure you don't waste a lot of time slogging through posts by people other than the business owners be sure to click on this filter...

Like with everything on the internet you have to deal with people who are misrepresenting themselves or the links they put out but you can find some good ways to save money using Twitter.

Type "money saving tips" into Twitter and you'll get a lot of good ideas.

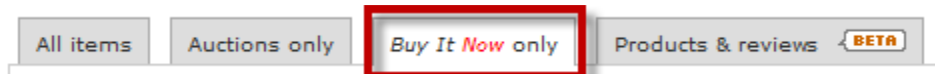

No search for saving money on gifts would be complete without a discussion of eBay.

Hit the site, fill in the search box and go!

Often times you'll find what you are looking for brand new and in the original packaging.

I prefer to use the BUY IT NOW tab...

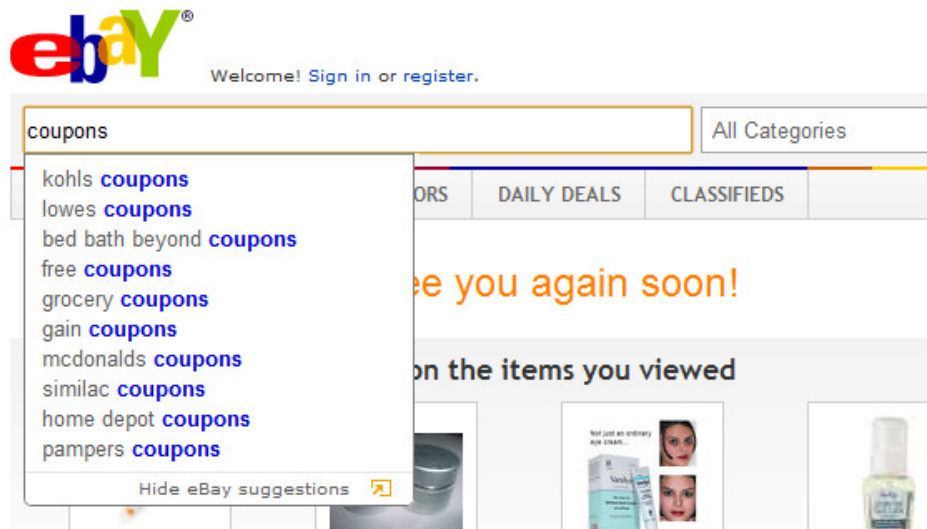

...because I'm impatient and I like to know what I'm paying.

If buying via auction is your only option set up alerts to remind you when the auction is ending so you can go back and see if it's still in the range of prices that works for you.

NEVER bid early as that might drive up the price unnecessarily.

Speaking of coupons and coupon codes....eBay is a great place to find these.

This is an area where BUY IT NOW is usually the best way to go. Be sure to read each auction for the fine print too.

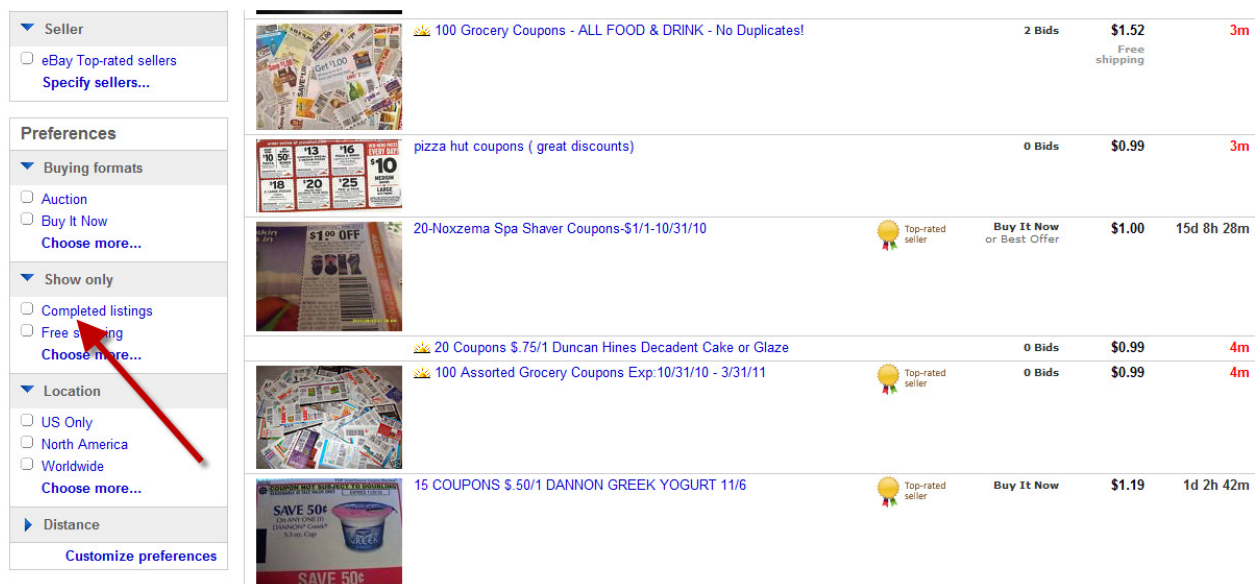

Do the math. Make sure that the cost of the coupon plus the shipping doesn't eat into too much of your savings.

This could actually be a pretty good money maker for someone who is good at finding coupons. In my quick look it seems the most successful coupon auctions include multiple coupons for one type of product.

Some examples include...

- baby formula
- printer cartridges
- airline drink coupons
- cigarettes
- pet food
- diapers

Log into your ebay account, search for "coupons" and then click COMPLETED LISTINGS...

Image	Title	Bids	Price	Shipping	Time Left
	100 Grocery Coupons - ALL FOOD & DRINK - No Duplicates!	2 Bids	$1.52	Free shipping	3m
	pizza hut coupons (great discounts)	0 Bids	$0.99		3m
	20-Noxzema Spa Shaver Coupons-$1/1-10/31/10	Top-rated seller	Buy It Now or Best Offer	$1.00	15d 8h 28m

	15 COUPONS $.50/1 DANNON GREEK YOGURT 11/6	Top-rated seller	Buy It Now	$1.19	1d 2h 42m

This will give you an idea of what is selling in the coupon category and for how much.

I'm sure people are mining their Sunday newspapers for coupons. Some are probably rummaging through newspaper recycle bins for coupons.

This is the "double-whammy" saver.

Pick a major online retailer and find a coupon code. Then go to ebates.com and buy the item at that retailer. You'll save money via the coupon code and you'll get cash back from ebates. The percentage back varies from 1-5% but every little bit helps, right?

They also have a nice referral program that pays you $5 each time a friend makes a purchase of $25 or more. Go to ebates.com for all the details.

Note: In just taking a look at the terms of their referral program it appears that posting your link on a Facebook page or in forums is not allowed. Not sure why, but be sure to read that fine print.

You won't have any trouble finding coupon codes for any major retailer at RetailMeNot.com e.g. target.com ae.com toysrus.com turbotax.com

See what I mean?

There really is no excuse to pay retail when you have access to this site.

Craigslist.org is great for finding used stuff but if you search right, you can find some brand new stuff, often still in the factory sealed box.

I found my treadmill here. It was still in the box and the owner helped me load it into the truck with a cigarette in his mouth. His son had given it to him as a gift and he wasn't really into it, obviously!

Step one is to go to www.Craigslist.org and choose the largest big city near you.

Most of the time you'll be dealing with individuals but once in awhile you might be dealing with a retailer who wants to sell some products without letting their regular customers know.

It's also FREE to advertise all but real estate on Craigslist so for a retailer it's a no-brainer. They should be doing it.

Of course, the best kind of gift is one you make yourself by hand. Second best is one that someone else makes and you pass off as your own!

Etsy.com will allow you to do that!

Etsy is a place that artists can go to sell their artwork via their own store. They have over 30 different categories...

Categories
Accessories
Art
Bags and Purses
Bath and Beauty
Books and Zines
Candles
Ceramics and Pottery
Children
Clothing
Crochet
Dolls and Miniatures
Everything Else
Furniture
Geekery
Glass
Holidays
Housewares
Jewelry
Knitting
Music
Needlecraft
Paper Goods
Patterns
Pets
Plants and Edibles
Quilts
Supplies
Toys
Vintage
Weddings
Woodworking

And each of those categories have sub-categories so if the person you are buying for likes handmade stuff, etsy is for you!

So you wouldn't go to woot in search of anything specific but you might find something great.

Like Woot, Groupon may save you money but you can't go there with anything specific in mind.

You sign up at their website and every day you get an email with some special deal in your area.

From their website...

How It Works

- 1. Each day we feature something cool to do at an unbeatable price.*
 - 2. You only get it if enough people join that day... so invite your friends!*
 - 3. Check back the next day for another awesome Groupon!*
- Still have questions?*

Get it? Group coupon = Groupon

I'm trying to imagine the guy that came up with this idea..telling all his friends about it. I'm sure most thought he was an idiot!

He's laughing now, I'll bet. (just assuming he's a he...women don't generally come up with good ideas like this.)

A screenshot of a Groupon deal page. At the top, it says "Share This:" with icons for Twitter, Facebook, and LinkedIn. The main headline is "$14 for Two Games of Laser Tag for Two People at Zero Gravity ($28 Value)". Below this is a green "Buy!" button and a price tag showing "$14". A table shows the breakdown: Value $28, Discount 50%, You Save $14. There's a "Buy it for a friend!" button. A countdown timer shows "Time Left To Buy: 12 hours 5 minutes 13 seconds". A green box says "19 bought" and "The deal is on!". To the right is a photo of people playing laser tag with the text "ZERO GRAVITY". Below the photo, "The Fine Print" states: "Expires Jan 12, 2011. Limit 3 per person, may buy multiple as gifts. Must use in 1 visit. Must be at least 7. No cash back. Not valid with other offers. See the rules that apply to all deals." "Highlights" include: "Futuristic, multilevel arena", "High-tech laser gadgetry", and "Two 15-minute games for you & a friend".

(Oh come on! I was kidding about the "women" comment!)

This is a new one for me but I really like it so far.

From their website:

Every day, dealnews brings you the best deals available on the hottest items on the Internet. We scour over 2,000 online retailers and tens of thousands of deals to deliver the best 100+ deals each and every day — the kinds of deals you'd normally only see on Black Friday. We verify that each deal is valid, the lowest total price we could find, and from a reputable retailer. Then and only then do we post it for you. We take getting a bargain seriously, and then share what we find with you.

When you hit their site you'll find a tab that includes your home area. Click on that tab and you'll see the latest Groupon offerings and other items of local interest. This morning the temp was in the 30s so they offered a thermal coat from Amazon for only $12.

An interesting feature for you iPhone users is that dealnews lets you know about specials going on in the AppStore.

They have an email list and alerts you can set up but you don't need to sign up for anything to take advantage of these savings.

CONCLUSION

What did I miss? If you've got a site or a strategy that I missed, be sure to let me know it and I'll include it in a future version of this report.

I'd love to get a report of your total savings during this holiday season. Please send them to ljq@leoquinn.com

The best place to use those savings is on paying off your debts. I can help with that.
